CAPTAIN WISE BLPLIED SHARPLY.

A Severe Cross-Examination. Matters of Public and Private Character Inquired of. Traveling Expenses, Congressional Contests, Campaigns.

When court opened yesterday mornsing the crowd was as large as on any previous occasion. They expected to be entertained as on Friday, but were disappointed, as after the first storm there was a prolonged calm. The evidence was upon threadbare subjects, dence was upon threadbare subjects, gone over so much that the audience as lost interest. There was only one opportunity for any of the breezy scenes which have been witnessed when matters relating to 21r. Massey's personal and political character and his official conduct were ender consideration. Mr. Massey appeared in court a few minutes late, but looked well. As a matter of fact, the senerable plaintiff instead of breaking down physically under the severe strain of cross-examination, to all appearance has improved. Talking has agreed with him, and although past 80 years he is yet able to say as many words in a day as the best of them. He and Capt, Wise are having a great deal of fun at each others expense and the hard things said always provoke a smile,

Gov. McKinney arrived yesterday morning and occupied a seat upon the Judge's bench with Gov. O'Ferrail, Judge Kirby, of Staunton, was also tn court and had a seat in the bar. Court had been opened a few minutes when Mr. Massey walked in and took the witness chair. the witness chair.

Good morning, Mr. Massey, said
Capt. Wise. I hope you rested well.

Good morning, Capt. Wise. I thank you, I rested well.

Mr. Wise, who is conducting the cross-examination, said: Mr. Massey, where are the letters that passed between you and Col. James at the time you claim that you loaned him Sốo. you claim that you loaned him $50.

John claim that you loaned him $50.

I hav'nt them, sir.

Mr. Massey was attempting to explain the transaction in his own way and was interrupted by Mr. Wise.

There were frequent clashes between them in which Mr. Massey said:

I did respect you before you turned against Virginia and her sons.

Can't Wise request I will.

Capt. Wise replied: I will say that if you, sir, or any other man says I have ever done anything against Virginia or her sons he is a har, and will occupy or her sons he is a har, and will occupy in the future the place that you have predicted the writer of the article published in the New York World against you would occupy.

Judge Prentis, with dignity, brought down his gavel and told Capt, Wise to confine himself to his duty as counsel conducting a cross examination, and Mr. Massey to his duty as witness.

In reply to a question, Mr. Massey said at the time he sent the check to James he was working in his (Massey) therest for a public office, to which he duterest for a public office, to which he Interest for a public office, to which he (Mr. Massey) aspired.

There was another spat between the witness and Capt. Wise which was quickly checked by the Judge.

Being questioned as to the character of Mr. Amos Dickerson, Mr. Massey Dickerson except that he did not tell the truth about the Parr affair,

He said he could not say whether or not Mr. Dickerson is the minister of a church in Floyd. Mr. Massey said he not summoned witnesses to im peach the character of Dickerson or carr. When asked if he knew anything against Parr, Mr. Massey said if proper he would say that Parr was in-westigated by the Legislature for se-curing free passes on the railroads for himself and using them for his family.

Mr. Wise then asked if the Legislature did not investigate him, Mr. Alas

Yes, sir; resolutions were offered in the State Senate by Senator Flood charging me with traveling on passes and charging the amount up to the, state. The charge was made by Mr. Flood, who was at that time working for Ginn & Co. No. sir; I do not know that Mr. Flood was attorney for Ginn & Co. at that time, but I think so from his testimony given on the stand in this suit. It is only my opinien. I do not know the Capt. Wise read the minutes the investigation of the charges against

The inquiry covered the Blacksburg College matter and the trip to Alabama, which latter matter was explained by the witness in the same manner that he explained it before the manner that he explained it before the Senate investigating Committee. On this subject Mr. Massey said, the reason why I charged up the expense of my trip to the State was because I was hurriedly called home in the interest of Blacksburg College, and having to pay two fares on that account I did not think that I should pay it.

Capt, Wise—If you had gone to Europe on your bridal tour and had received this telegram, calling you home in the interest of Biacksburg College, would you have felt justified in charging it up to the State?

Mr. Massey—That is a supposituious case and would never have occurred during my official term.

Will you explain, said Mr. Wise, why you charged up to the State expenses of your trip on official business when you had passes in your pocket?

Mr. Massey said he considered the passes as compliments to him and thought he had a right to charge the fare to the State. He did not remember how many passes he had when he

You think that is bonest? said Mr.

I certainly do, said Mr. Massey. Capt. Wise exhibited a copy of a statement of the amounts paid to Mr. Massey as expenses during 1891 and 1892, made out by Junge Watkins, of Farmville. A dispute arose between Mr. Massey and Mr. Wise as to the dates of the items, and it was passed to the jury to decide which was right and saveral of these approach the state of the state.

the jury to decide which was right and several of them expressed the opinion that Mr. Massey was right.

Relative to the $500 allowed by the State to the Superintendent of Public Instruction for expenses, the witness stated that he thought that the amount which he had drawn since he had been in office would average about $400 per annum.

Mr. Massey said he was a member of five Boards of Visitors to educational institutions, etc., and when he visited these institutions in official capacity his traveling expenses were paid those institutions.

HIS PRIVATE ACCOUNTS.

After a very thorough examination into the matter of traveling expenses, Mr. Wise questioned Mr. Massey as to his private accounts. Mr. Massey said in 1881 his income was $4,133 and his living expenses $1,231. Capt. Wise requested the witness to read from his itary the steens making the $1,231. As the various stems of family supplies, such as sugar, etc., were read, Capt. Whee took them down and then consumed about half an hour's time in adding up the column of figures and reported that he made the figures $1,214, but would not say that his addition was correct.

Capt. Wise questioned Mr. Massey as to doctor bills and other items of expense not found in the list, and Mr. Massey said, when taking the stand, he had informed the jury that this account was one he kept of his current expenses and was not absolutely cor his own convenience. Being questioned as to the expense of conducting his political campaign that year.

Mr. Massey said his expenses were not heavy; that wherever he went the committees generally paid the hotel bills or he stopped with friends. When he had political headquarters in Richmond, when he was a candidate for tiovernor, the expense was defrayed by his friends. He kept no account of his friends. He kept no account of his friends. He kept no account of the money he paid out on that occasion. Mr. Massey said he did not know what his expenses were the year he ran against Capt. Wise for Congress. Capt. Wise asked how much he thought the jury ought to take off for the items not mentioned in the diary, and Mr. Massey and I think the con-

Mr. He was satisfied that the $1,397 deput in the box yesterday against Rich posited in 1881 was in addition to that

In the cross examination as to this amount loaned his son, it was disclosed that Mr. Massey had a son in the Auditor's office. Yes, said Mr. Massey, out of eleven clerks one was my son. And you had a daughter in your office since you have been Seperintendent of Education and a grand child in the Miller School, "I nope you will get this last matter sufficiently wired after a while, and I also hope that you will produce that affidavit." Capt. Wise said he would do so at the proper time.

You can never do it because there is no such adiciavit. You admitted yes-terday that you went to the judge and stated that the facts in your daughter's affidavit were true.
Yes, sir; when I learned of my daugnter's desire, I went togthe judge
